
Image Evaluation Aerial Photography Brock

using aerial imagery to assess wetland hydrology - 4. assign an identifying label (such as a, b, c) to each evaluation area on the base map and enter it as an "area" on the exhibit 1 recording form (see appendix 1 for example). 5. review each area on each image and note observations in accordance with labels described in this document (see next section on evaluating aerial images). evaluating urbanization from satellite and aerial images ... - evaluating urbanization from satellite and aerial images by means of a ... images we are obtaining the maps which allow a quantitative evaluation for distinguishing the textures in them. 2. the statistical method ... the image on the left is an aerial image and the image on the right a satellite image. we can apply evaluating digital image performance -
